This is your yearbook, and welcome to it. Many people will enjoy it, and of course others will criticize it and leave it on some deserted bookshelf. Whether or not this book is worthy of the reader's praise depends on his judgment of what a yearbook should be. And there are as many possibilities as there are readers.

For some individuals, a yearbook is little more than a weapon that packs a good wallop. The '75 Cub Annual loses some points in this respect: it is rather unwieldy to throw unless it is dropped from a balcony, a staircase, or another lofty position.

For others, a yearbook is a physical sign that their hard-earned and hard-spent money has gone for a worthwhile cause after all.

Still others think that a yearbook is simply a collection of pages, of which only one — the one containing their own mug shots — is of any real importance.

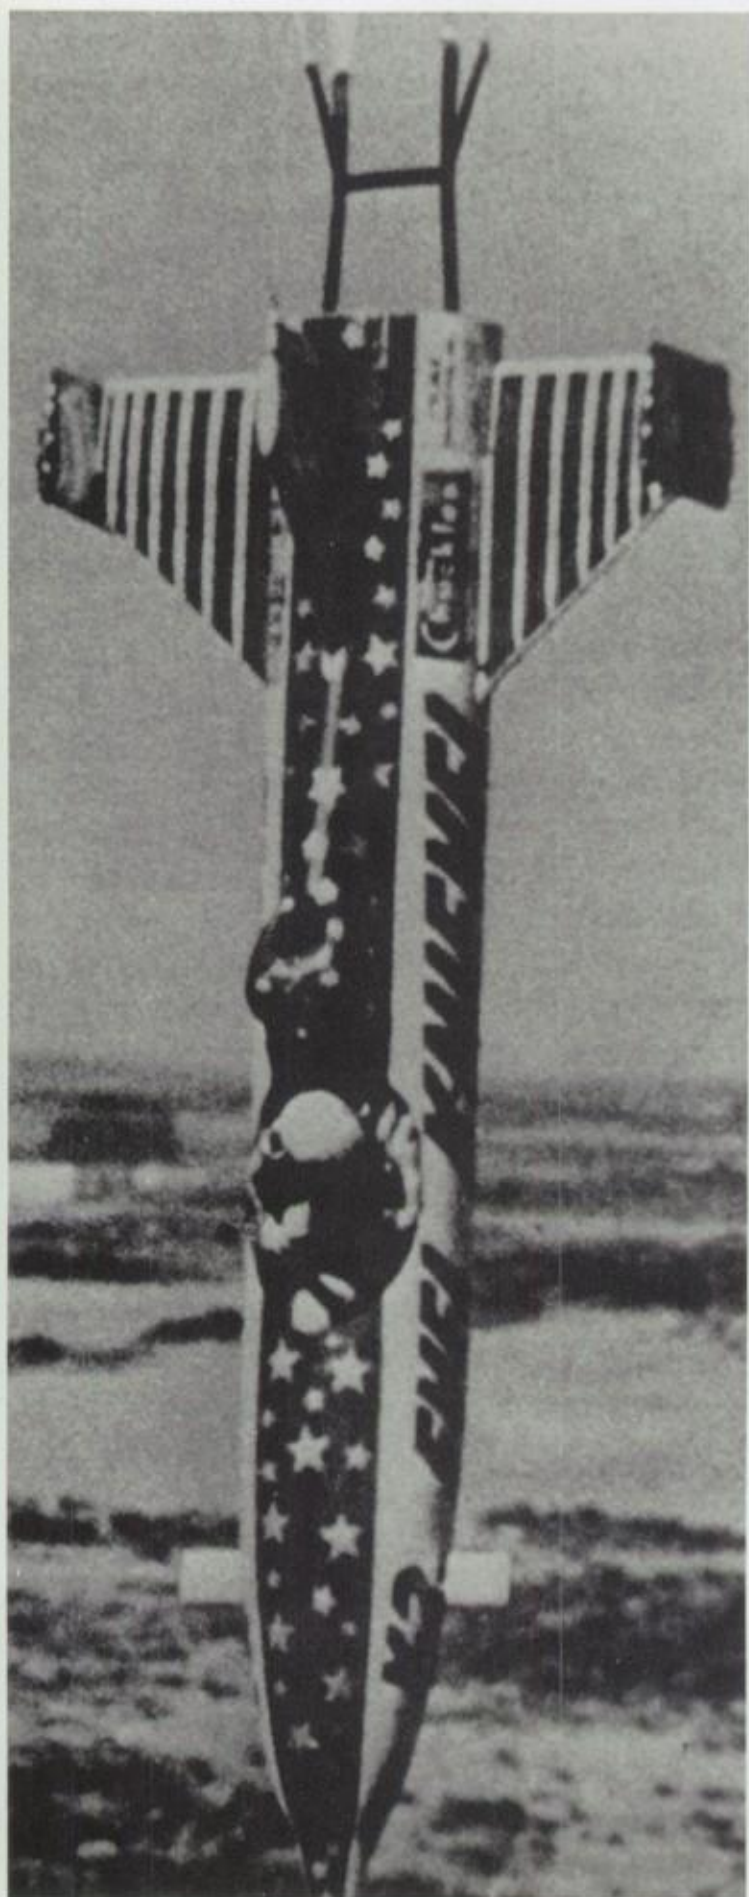

A yearbook is all of these things. Hopefully, the '75 Cub Annual has a further dimension as a historical document. It recalls the events which influenced the lives of everyone at U of D High in 1974-75.

These events are diverse. There was the resignation of President Nixon in August. And then there was the pardon. There was the abrupt succession of Gerald Ford and the gradual formation of the Ford Administration. Henry Kissinger was still on the scene, but less than before. Vietnam made headlines when Saigon fell and Ho Chi Minh City Rose. Congress ended its Watergate investigations only to begin a probe of the C.I.A. Nelson Rockefeller ended his retirement and bought a bed for the Vice President's Home. Senator Ted Kennedy kept saying he wasn't interested in the '76 campaign. Wilbur Mills and Henry Ford received brief notoriety during the dull winter months.

All year long there was inflation and unemployment. New cars didn't sell; plants closed and the State Fair grounds filled up with the surplus product. The city of Detroit tried to solve its financial difficulties; Mayor Coleman Young got tough and the D.P.O.A. got tough. And Evil Knevil made a death-defying leap over Snake River Canyon.

At U of D High there were classes and homework, exams and projects, maxi-quizzes and mini-quizzes. There was Super Science and the new science classroom in the basement. And there were seventh graders on the third floor. There were tricycle races and apple dunking contests in the Commons. There weren't many soc hops, but there was a square dance. And then there was snow — enough snow to call off school for three days, but not enough snow to forestall the Harlequins' last minute practice of Romeo and Juliet. There was the Paul Mueller Benefit game played in a packed U of D High gym. There were the Catholic League champs to brighten an endless winter. And there was Hal Schram. April brought Project Detroit, and Belle Isle was beautified by 800 hungry, cold U of D High students.

Most importantly, there were people, all kinds of people, who make U of D High a reality. There was Mr. Stepanik putting in long hours arranging college applications for yet one more class of graduates. There was Fr. Louapre slowly losing his Southern accent while setting U of D High's course for the future. There was Father Lechtenberg repairing A.V. equipment late into the night. And there was the ever-available Fr. Herman. There were mothers and Dads and alumni meeting and meeting again to bring off High Time III.

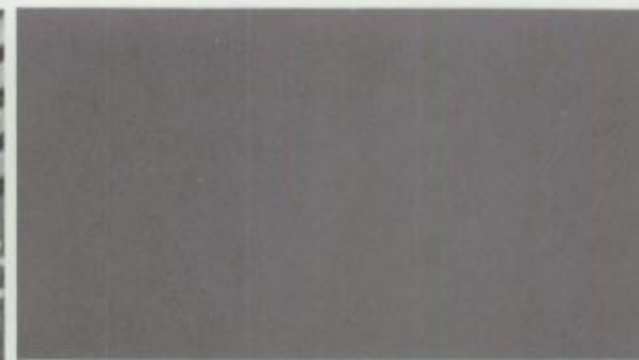

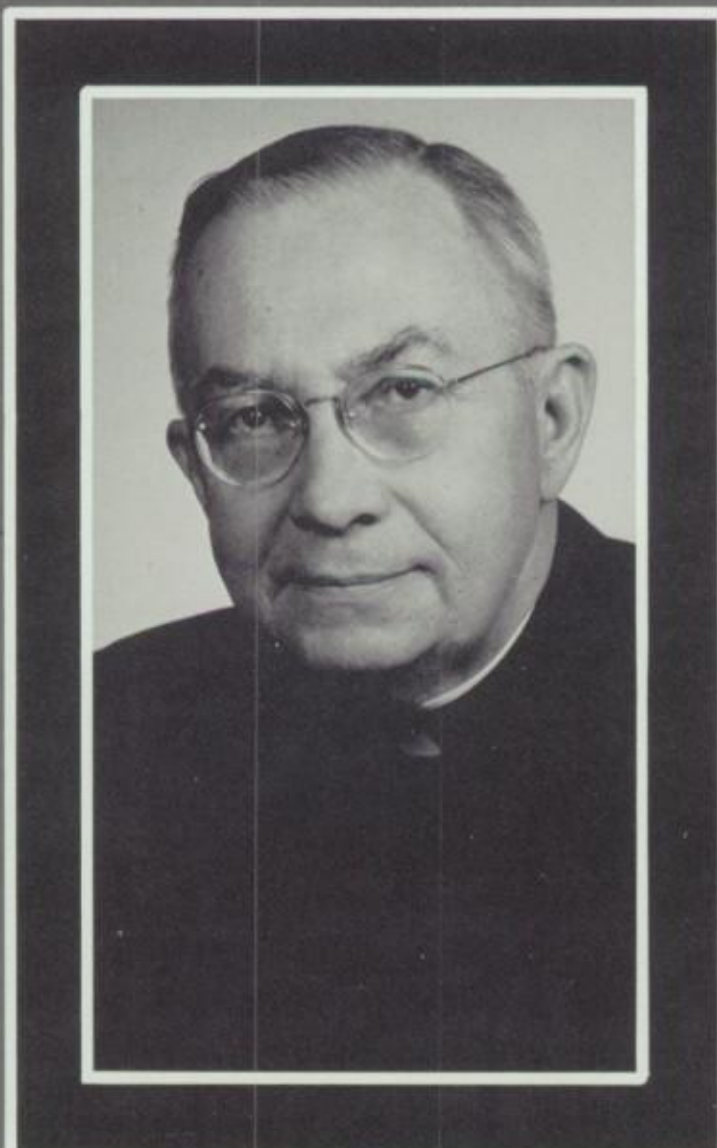

There were good times and sad times. There was the game at Traverse City in September. The U of D High defeat went unnoticed while everyone's attention was focused on Student Senate President Paul Mueller. Unexpected tragedy rested heavily on everyone, and everyone prayed. Put Paul's accident turned into a victory that everyone witnessed on the stage of Ford Auditorium at graduation.

There were two funerals. Father Douglas A. Pearl died on January 30, 1975. He had counselled many U of D High students and had been associated with the school since his enrollment at the Jefferson Avenue campus in the early twenties. As a student, he edited the yearbook and named it the Cub Annual, the name it still retains. Fr. Pearl's fifty-two years as a Jesuit were years of dedicated service to high school students and alumni. His dedication will be a lasting memory in the U of D High tradition.

President Nixon after his April television address announcing release to the House Judiciary Committee of edited White House tape transcripts, shown at right.

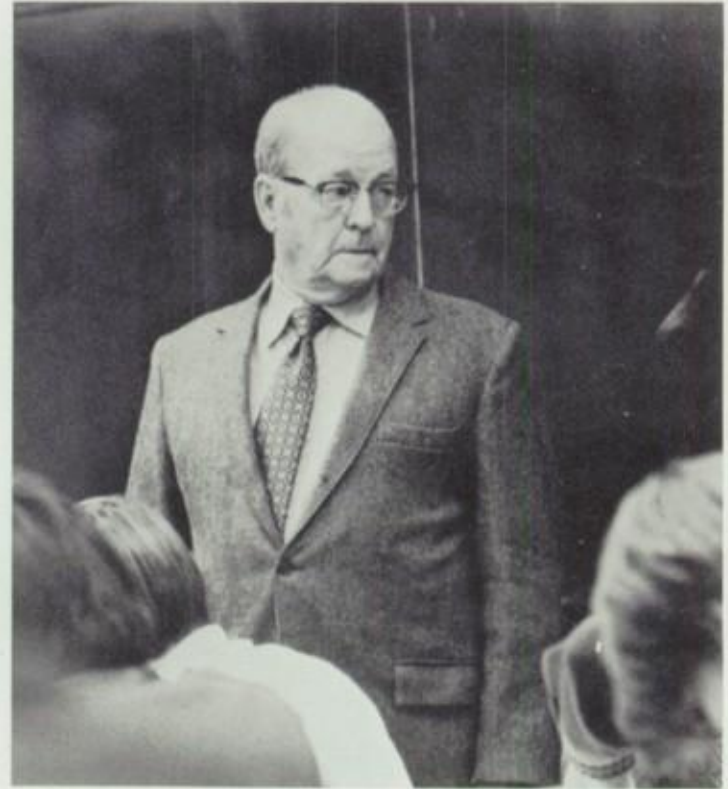

Mr. Robert V. Stackable died on Christmas Eve, 1974. Although his death came at the end of a long illness, everyone who has been associated with U of D High during the past thirty-three years knew that a true friend and a great teacher had passed from our midst.

Mr. Stackable was known for his patience and expertise in teaching many levels of math and science at the High since 1941. His students would all agree that between after school help with homework and make-up quizzes, their knowledge of math was greatly advanced. Moreover, they had come into close contact with a truly fine Christian man.

It is sometimes difficult to find a teacher who can communicate effectively with all levels of high school students. Yet Mr. Stackable had this gift and put it to good use. A lost freshman or eighth grader could always be sure of a smiling face and patient directions if he has Mr. Stackable.

It is with great admiration that the '75 Cub Annual is dedicated to Robert V. Stackable.

FOOTBALL

The Cub gridiron team won only two games, beating Austin 26-13 and Benedictine 28-7. We lost to Catholic Central, Brother Rice, and others, but there was also the hard loss at the hands of Notre Dame, which proved that this team was no push-over. There existed one common element to all of these games — no team took us lightly, for the Cub football team had, according to statistics, the best offensive squad within the Central Division. From the spectator's view, it can be said that this football season was lousy. Why? The various reasons can be argued back and forth indefinitely, but one common element exists in all of these discussions; someone always hazards to guess that this team was too good. It is undebatable that this team had potential. The players just couldn't put it together.

For those people directly involved in the football program, there was no wasted time. There was "hell-time" in mid-August called conditioning. There were whistle drills, tosses, monkey rolls, firemen's carries, the curds of dust in your teeth, and the many pains when it was all over. More importantly there were the good times. There were friendships created which can never be replaced. Although a 2-6-0 record is nothing to be proud of, this season was infinitely far from being declared totally bad.

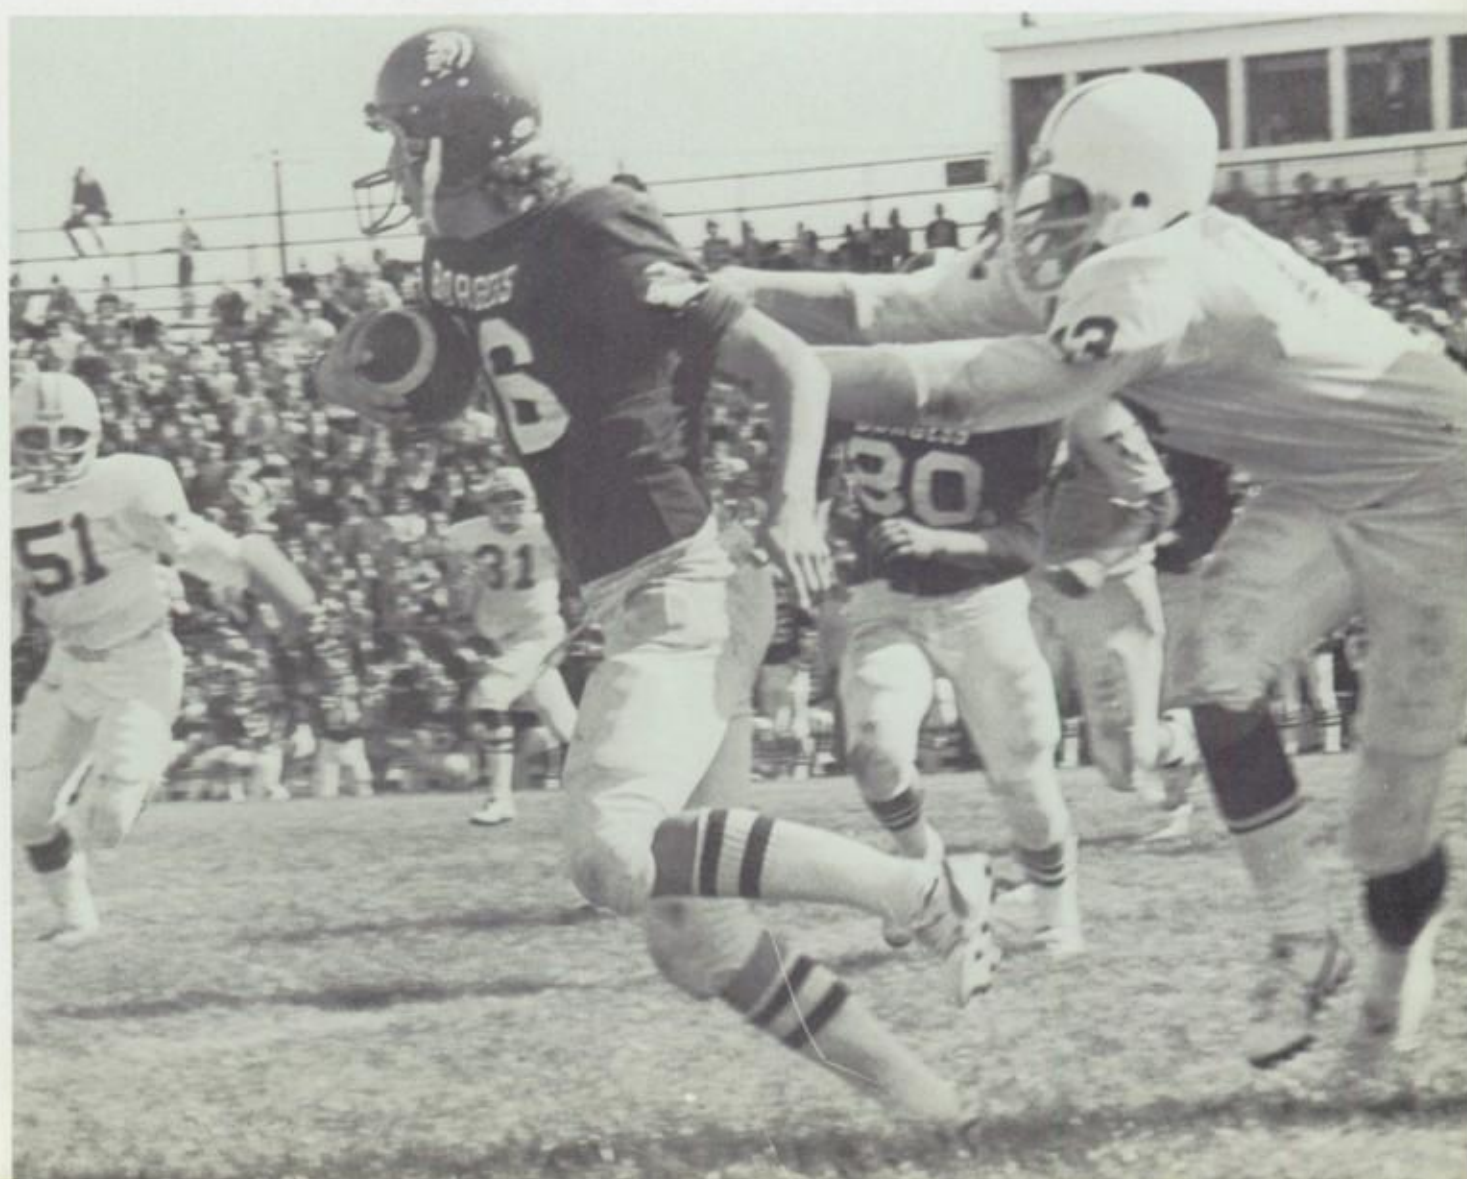

The team wishes to extend their deepest thanks to Mr. Offer, Mr. Hafner, Mr. Tuz, Mr. Isham, Mr. MacDonald, the ever present Mr. Coyne, and the managers, for making this a memorable and worthwhile season.

J.V.

After getting off to an impressive victory over Aquinas 14-8, the J.V. football team proceeded to lose its remaining games and finished with a 1-5 mark. The coaches, Mr. Tuz and Mr. MacDonald, were primarily concerned with educating the team's players in order that these future varsity players would have some knowledge of the game. Although the team lost many of its games, the players were still inspired and therefore many flashes of brilliance were evident in the team's playing. After losing several of its talented players to the Varsity, the J.V. team still had several outstanding performers that contributed to overshadow the team's dismal season. Included among these were Sophomores Rick Smart, Derrick Segars, Dave Rodriguez, Joe Hanafee, and Freshmen Pat Fitzgerald and Brian Marks. Not to go unmentioned are the many other devoted members of this spirited J.V. team, upon which coach Lou Offer will build next year's Varsity team in pursuit of the Catholic League title.

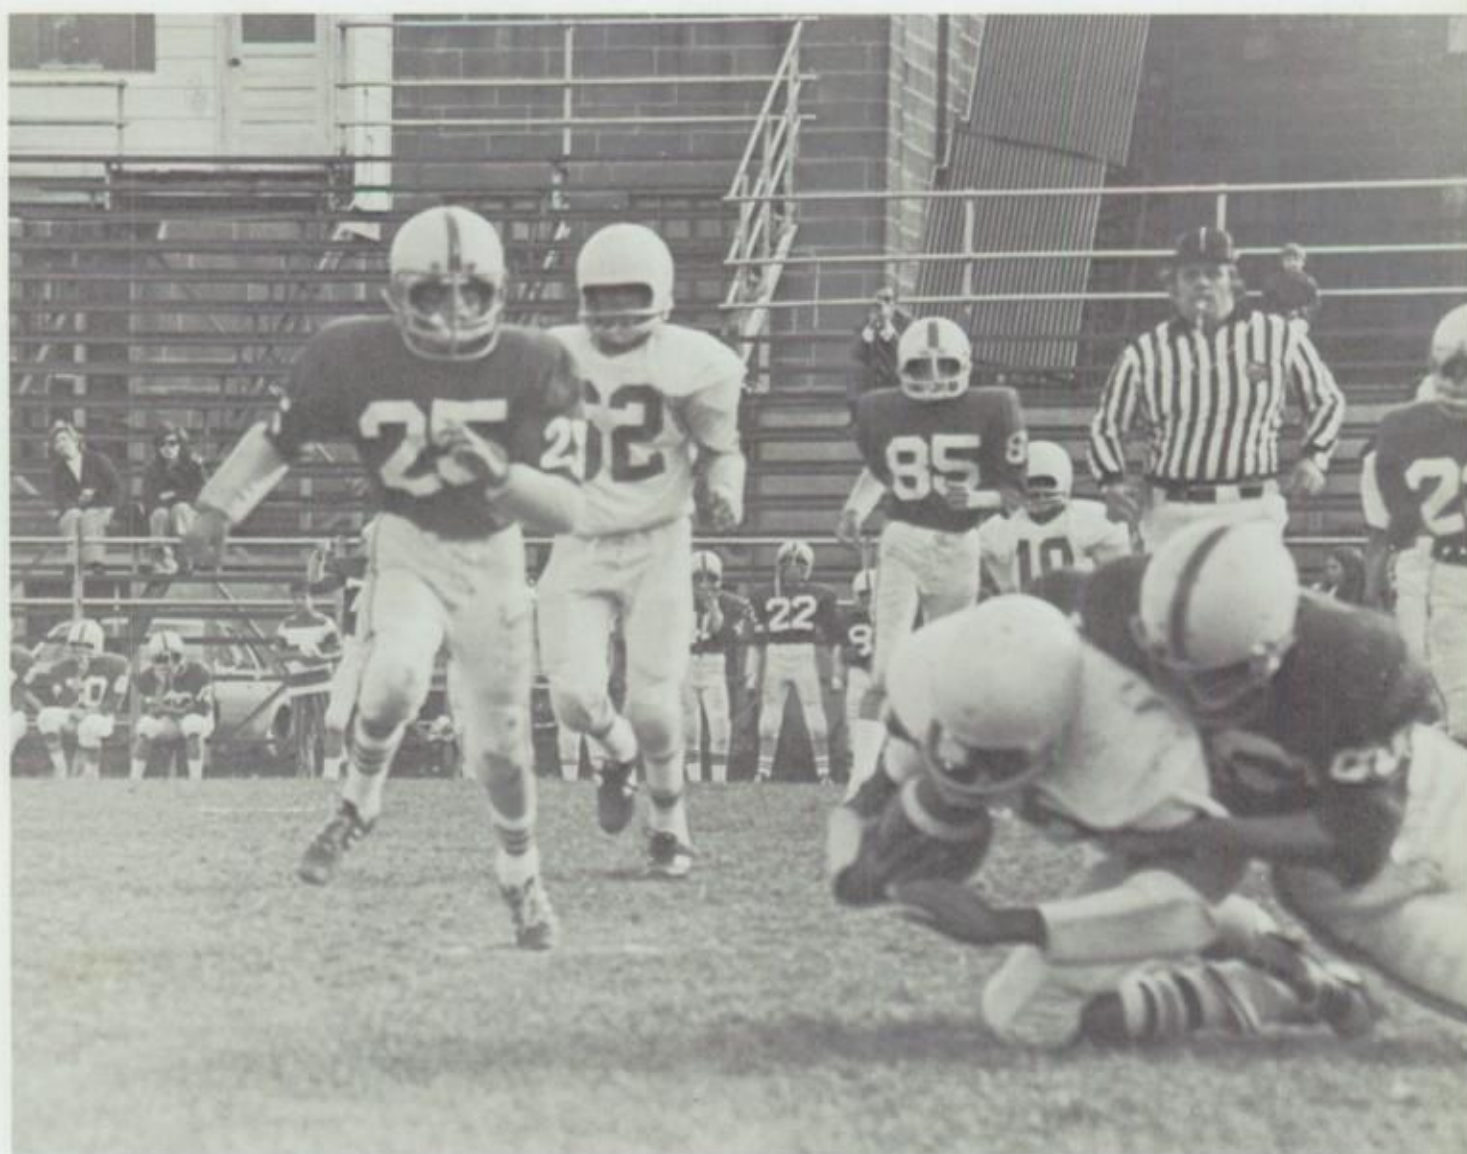

UNDERCLASSMEN

One thing that brightened up the football picture for future years was the new Academy team brought into a noticeable existence this year under the coaching of Mr. Rodriguez. Although this team finished with a 1-5-1 record, we can all honestly say that the formation of this team strengthens our hope for a title contender at U. of D. High in years to come. This team overcame its lack in numbers with an overwhelming desire to win. Because of this desire and because of the inspiration of coach Rodriguez, the team looked very strong in the majority of its games. On account of their youth, all of the players' talents blossomed as the season progressed. The experience of being on this football team, the unity, the love, and the joy, can only be advantages for these young men both for their lives and for the football program at U. of D. High.

The Freshman football team, coached by Mr. Saam and Mr. Naski, finished another dismal season compiling a 0-7 mark. This team came close many times and more importantly, it played hard each game. On account of their dismal season, we can only expect that these players will take pride in the U. of D. High tradition and rebound to a better season as J.V.'s. The members of this team are keeping the unity and experience they gained, and are already preparing for a better season next year.

GOLF

With the rolling in of fall and a new school year, there came the rolling of many a golf ball. Playing in windy, rainy, and sub-freezing weather, the team was not able to play up to par. However, after losing our first two matches to Brother Rice and Austin, we rebounded and followed with a string of eight consecutive victories. Going into our final match expecting to take the Catholic League title, we literally choked against lowly DeLaSalle and "gave" the title to Rice. Although we finished in second place in the Central Division, we didn't quit; we finished first in our regional for the second year in a row. Following this fine showing, we finished seventh in the state which is the best in recent years.

There were many fine performances and accomplishments, but the biggest delight of all was to be part of this team and its coach, who gave us encouragement when we needed it. Although this team will lose five seniors at graduation, next year's team promises to be just as good in spirit as well as game, as coach Fr. Verhelle brings up many promising golfers from the ranks of the underclassmen.

ENDURANCE IS THE NAME OF THE GAME

It started last summer, two weeks after school ended. They met with Coach John Tenbusch or UDHS graduate of '67 Jerry Myszkowski. They met once a week during the summer on a Tuesday night and ran in the blistering summer heat. When school started they were out back on the track running either in post-summer heat or pre-fall cold, getting ready to go all the way in winning a championship. But the Harriers only took second place.

After a narrow loss of one point to Brother Rice, they were carried by pride and roaring encouragement from the unusually large crowds that showed up at the meets to beat the other four teams in our central division.

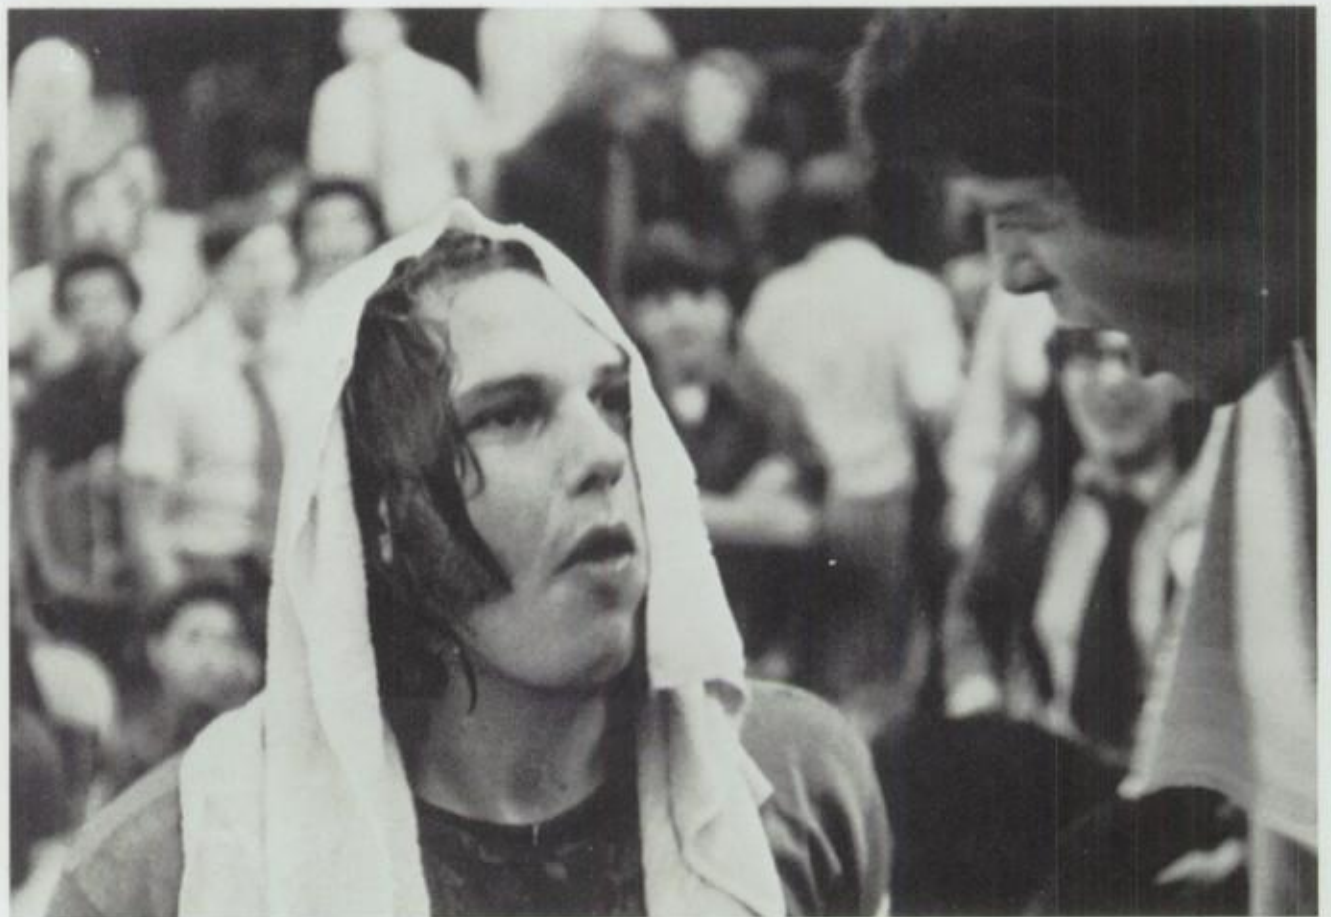

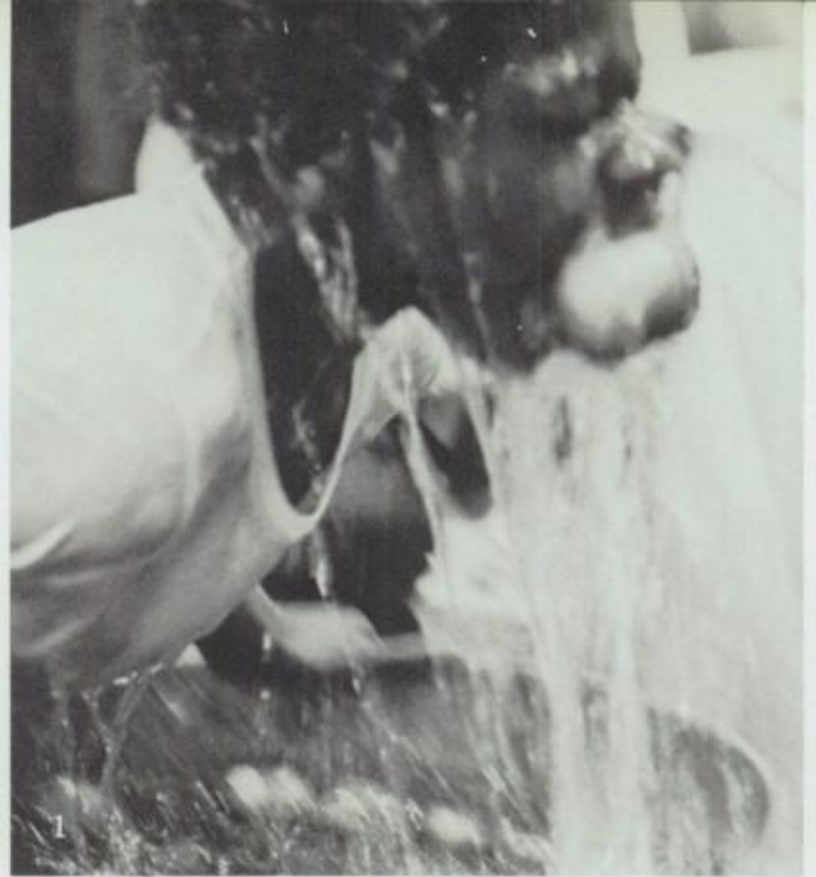

It was co-captains Jim Baumgartner and Kevin Halloran running stride for stride. It was Joe Fattore showing how Italian Power works. It was Chris "A Man for All Seasons" Knoll running well in any kind of weather. It was Jeff Makuch getting back into the swing of things after a knee operation two winters ago. It was John Godwin barreling along. It was Floyd Borders getting a pat on the back from Mr. Tenbusch when he became the top 7th runner. It was the whole team hamming it up as I took pictures of them. It was laughing, crying, shouts of anger, shouts of joy, spit, nerves, cramps, aching lungs, aching muscles, and more spit. It was devotion? A devotion towards a big stone building full of young men and a devotion towards a fuzzy-faced man.

LUNCHTIME CRAZINESS

The Student Senate was responsible for several events which occurred during lunch periods. 1. An underclassman demonstrates winning form. 2. Senior Ron Budd is encouraged by classmate Mike Synk.

3. Contestants lined up for the tricycle race. 4. The winner, Wacky Bill Weber.

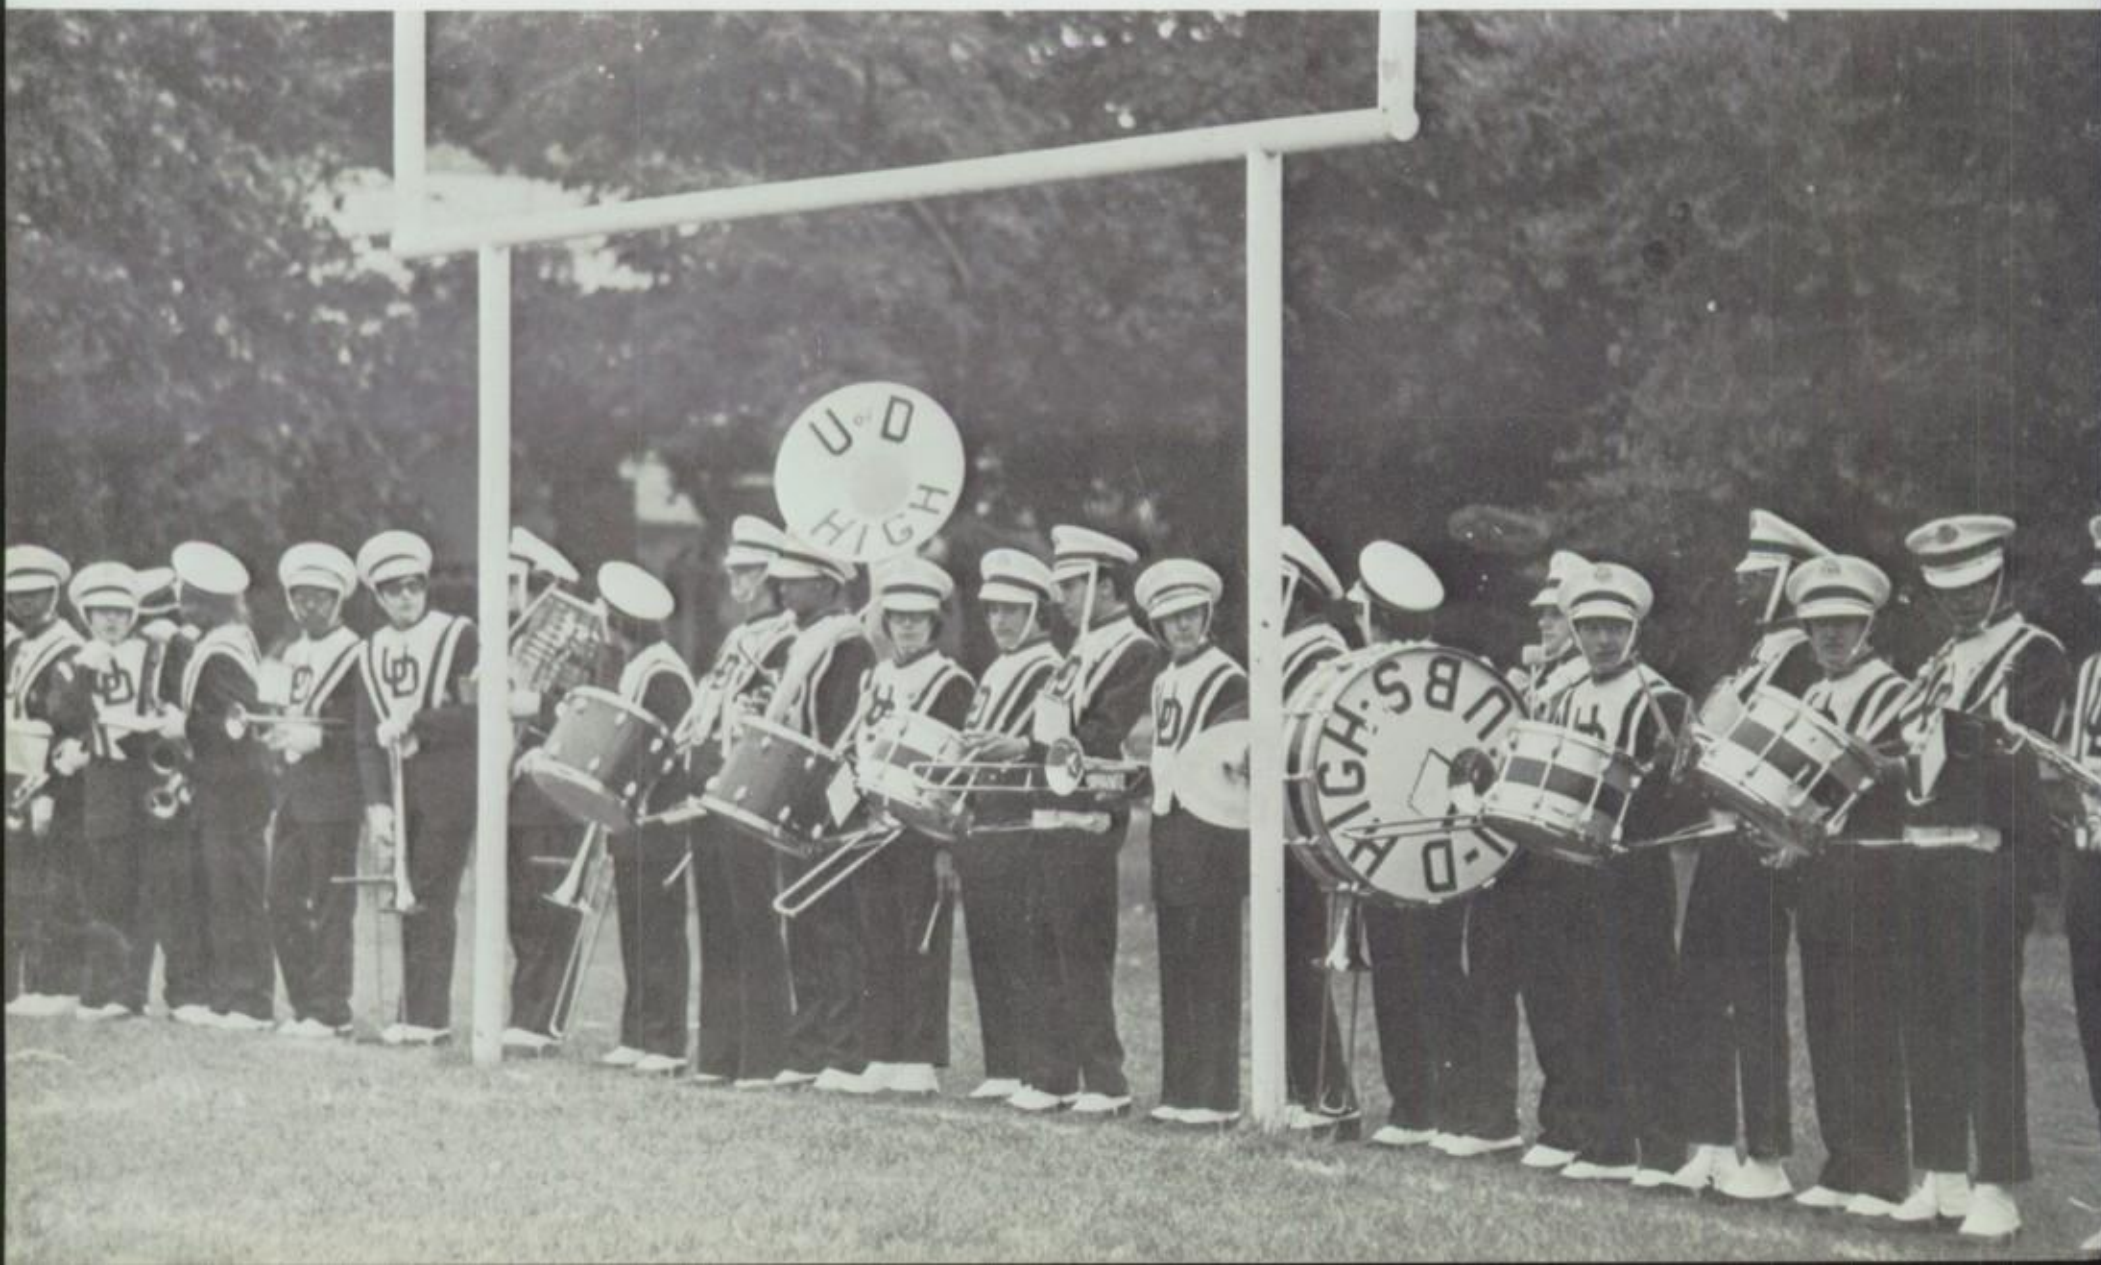

The Senate-sponsored "Battle of the Drummers" was ruled a draw. 1. Paul Lorenger. 2. Joe Jakubiec. 3. Frank Killian.

THE BANDS

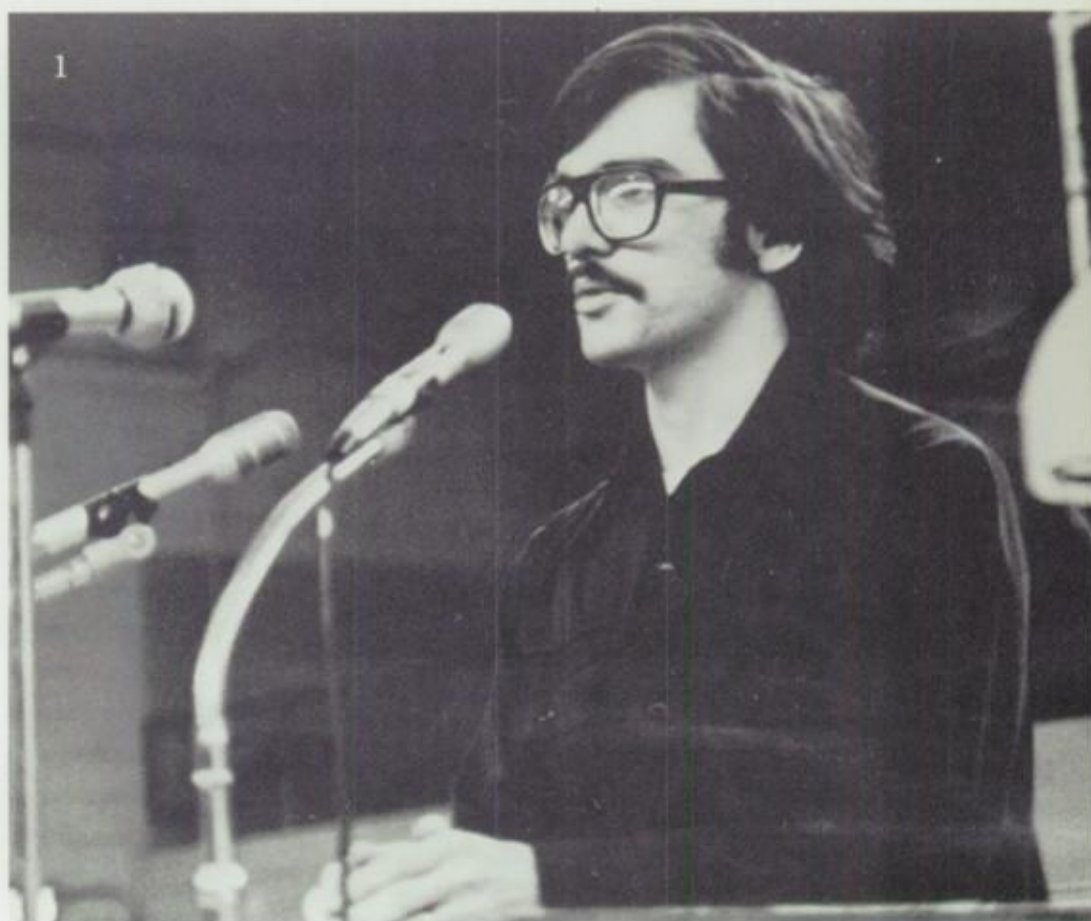

CHORUS

Most of us are musically inclined to one degree or another. For those who wanted to take an active part in a musical group, but had never strived to play an instrument, the U. of D. High Chorus offered a great opportunity. The Chorus is a performing group, meeting daily as its members prepare for their concerts. From Christmas to the Cabaret to Spring . . . different occasions and different music.

Besides being an enjoyable class and a welcome break from the daily drudgery of history, English, and science, the Chorus gave some of its thirty or so members a chance to discover and cultivate a talent some didn't even know existed. It was a chance to learn and have fun at the same time, to work; to stand and moan as the baritones worked on a rough spot, to file on the risers in front of a large audience and finally listen to all that work pay off, listen as the applause came . . . And for those thirty or so individuals, it was just another way of getting involved in the U. of D. High experience.

The only payment for their labors is in seeing the technical aspects of these events come off successfully. Under the leadership of Fr. Hagarman as moderator, the Tech Crew did just this.

ROMEO AND JULIET

The fall production of the U. of D. High Harlequins was that of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. 1. Martha Lavey as Juliet bemoaning her fate. 2. Pat Grimes in the lead role of Romeo. 3. John Hammel as Juliet's father.

CAROUSEL

After two years in Harlequins, I think I can say that no other part of U of D has been more important to me. I learned how to spread joy to others — especially to the fat lady. I shared in the lives of many wonderful people — the excitement of opening night, the disappointment of an audience that just didn't understand, the crazy fun of rehearsals. Some may even say I learned how to sing. I'll come back and wish the Harlequins the best of luck. But I also know Harlequins will never be the same without Martha Lavey, Grace Morand, Terri Bellaimey, Phil Dagostini, and the other seniors who won't be back. For we'll be telling the rest of the world, on the college level, what it's like to be a Harlequin. I can't help but think of what Chris Ryba said: "I'll always be a Harlequin; there's no better kind of person."

Although the 1975 Basketball team enjoyed its share of the limelight, there was much more to it. The work of four years, and the dreams and "ifs" for years to come were all a part. There was a summer with an important period of jelling and a retreat to unify before the crusade. The team brought together 16 different people and coaches with only one thing in common — basketball. The talent was apparent, and the hopes and idle gossip led the team into its most successful season in years. The closing of the fall season brought together the team as a whole for the first time. For most it was a readjustment, and for all it was an adjustment.

There were no drumrolls as U of D trounced Bishop Borgess, yet the feeling broke open into an array of public relations work. The bandwagon was now open and the fans came to see if it was true or a farce. The Cubs made believers as they handled Rice easily and opened up a 5-0 record. The first downfall came to Class C champions Bay City All Saints behind a roaring crowd and mediocre Cub effort in the first half. Trailing by as much as 16 points, the effort fell short. Although we recaptured the lead for a brief period, a rash of whistles sent U of D down.

Morale was at a fatal low as even the team didn't know if our balloon had burst or if it was just a time for realignment. Mr. Hafner went to work even harder to get the Cubs back on the track. Behind the power of a very talented starting team and a bench whose players could have started for most teams in the state, the Cubs began to roar again. They impressively disposed of all contenders including CC and Rice — in overtime. We weren't alone in our cause, and the school began to feel unity and pride in itself once more.

The limelight continued with an extremely easy handling of Catholic Central before over 3,000 at the Paul Mueller Benefit game.

The Cubs barely beat Aquinas twice, yet they played almost faultlessly against East Catholic. The Catholic League champions were crowned on that Sunday night upon the 74-57 victory over Shrine.

The awards were astounding as the Cubs, ranked Number Four by the News, finished the season. Although the poor showing at Ferndale ended the Cubs' realistic hopes for a run at the state title, they will not be forgotten soon: All-State Shaun Bradley and Kevin Halloran; All-City Shaun Bradley, Kevin Halloran, Tim Anderson, Tony Hosey and Ed Moultrie; Don Fucinari's hustle, Warfield Moore's sky shot, Jim Stapleton or Dave Ciesnicki or Andy McGuinness on defense. Ron Robinson, Keith Jackson and Kyle King all gave up a lot to be a part of the team. So did Tony Everson, Derrick Mayes and Bill Ponkowski, who will see their own success in the next year. Mr. Hafner, who gave his all to do his best, became Catholic League Coach of the Year. And who will soon forget the fans and the friends? T.C., Mark, Mike, Chris and Bob will all be remembered. And who will forget we were Central Division Champs? We were Catholic League Champs! We were the best! Right on! Right on!

When one looks at the record of the 1974-75 U-D High swim team he views a certain degree of success in the 6-1 dual meet record, the second place in the dual meet season, and third place in the Catholic League Finals.

However, I see the greatest success in the development of the young swimmers who made up most of the team. For instance, three of the five best swimmers were freshmen and sophomores. Along with these achievements so early in their careers, all of these young men have learned quickly what different types of success mean in regard to their lives, a mature realization which often doesn't develop until Junior or Senior year.

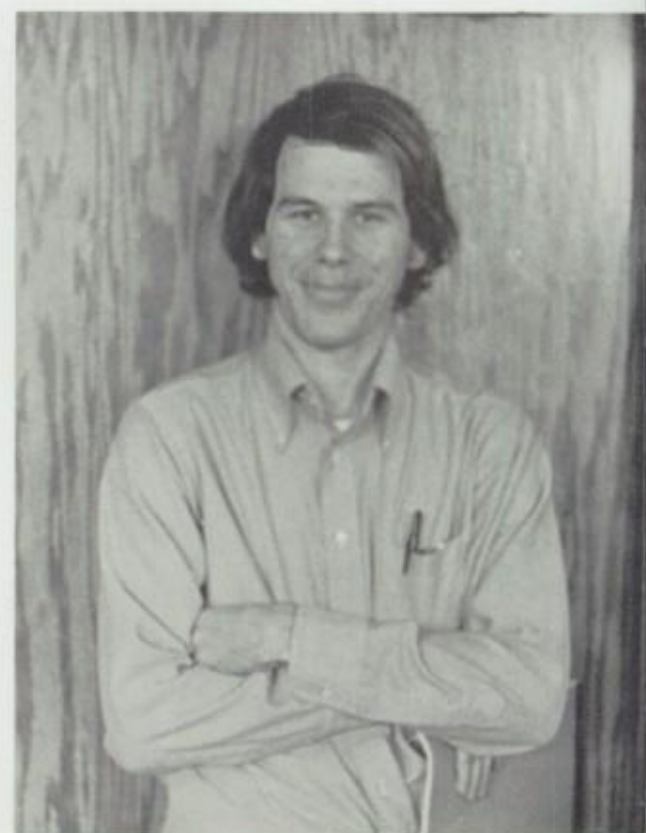

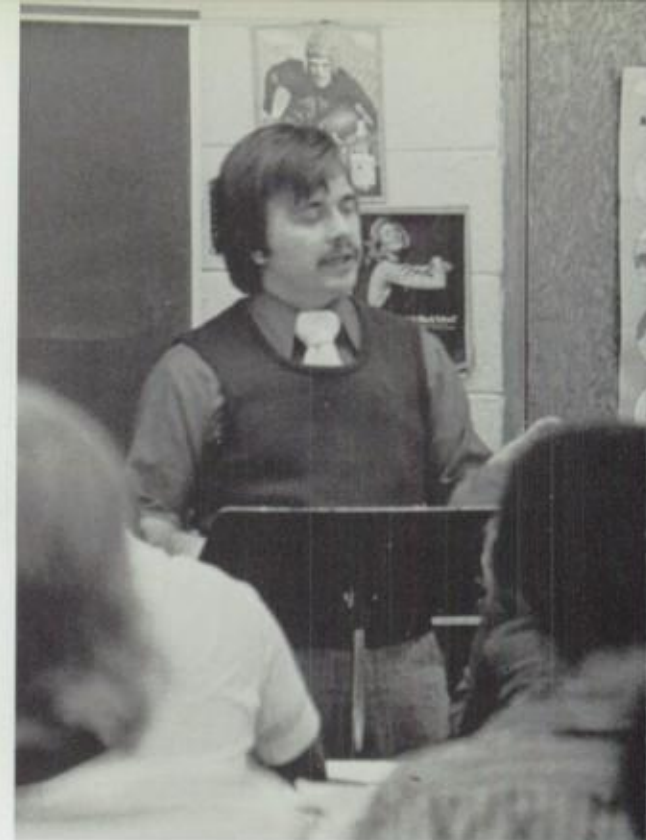

Because I was co-captain of the team, I feel I have contributed something to this growth, and this is far more rewarding to me than any sense of accomplishment in a good won-lost record could ever be.

DEBATE

1974-75 was a year of outstanding success for the U of D High Debate and Forensics squads. The top debate team of Dan Mulhern and John Hammell fared very well. Few tournaments took place at which one or both of them did not receive awards. Among their accomplishments, they were named first and fourth speakers at the University of Massachusetts. They won the Kimball Invitational, and John Hammell was awarded as the top speaker in the state finals. The team went undefeated and won the Michigan chapter of the National Forensic League, the first time in the history of Michigan high school debating that a Catholic school has achieved so well.

In Forensics, Richard Smart won the National Catholic Forensic League championship in Philadelphia. The U of D High Student Congress took three awards in national competition, with John Fortier being rated Superior Speaker of the House and Mike Montgomery and Matt Wilbert placing close behind.

FORENSICS

M.U.N.

One word can describe the M.U.N. club this year: success. Membership rose; we attended more assemblies than ever before; we sponsored our own assembly; and we participated in one national assembly.

Our membership rose to about 56. I don't know whether this is due to a true interest in world affairs or the girl-to-boy ratio at several assemblies. Besides attending more M.U.N.'s, we also won more awards. At Marion we took home 7 awards: one best delegate, three honorable mentions, and three noteworthy mentions. At our own we swept the best delegate awards and won best delegation concurrently.

Our UD High assembly was a success. 52 countries were represented by 7 different schools. Handling the chairman duties were able-bodied alumni Fred Synk '73 and Kevin Bosquette '73 and myself as president of the assembly.

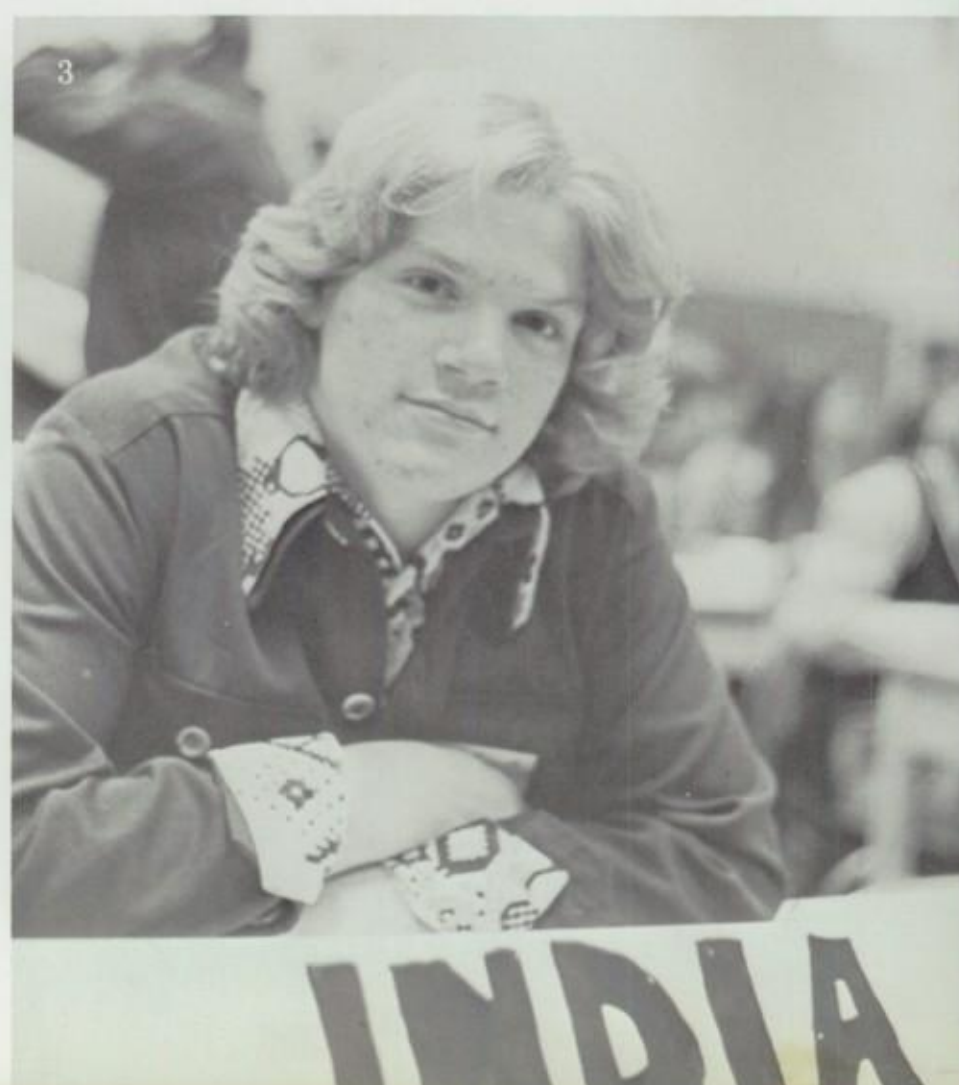

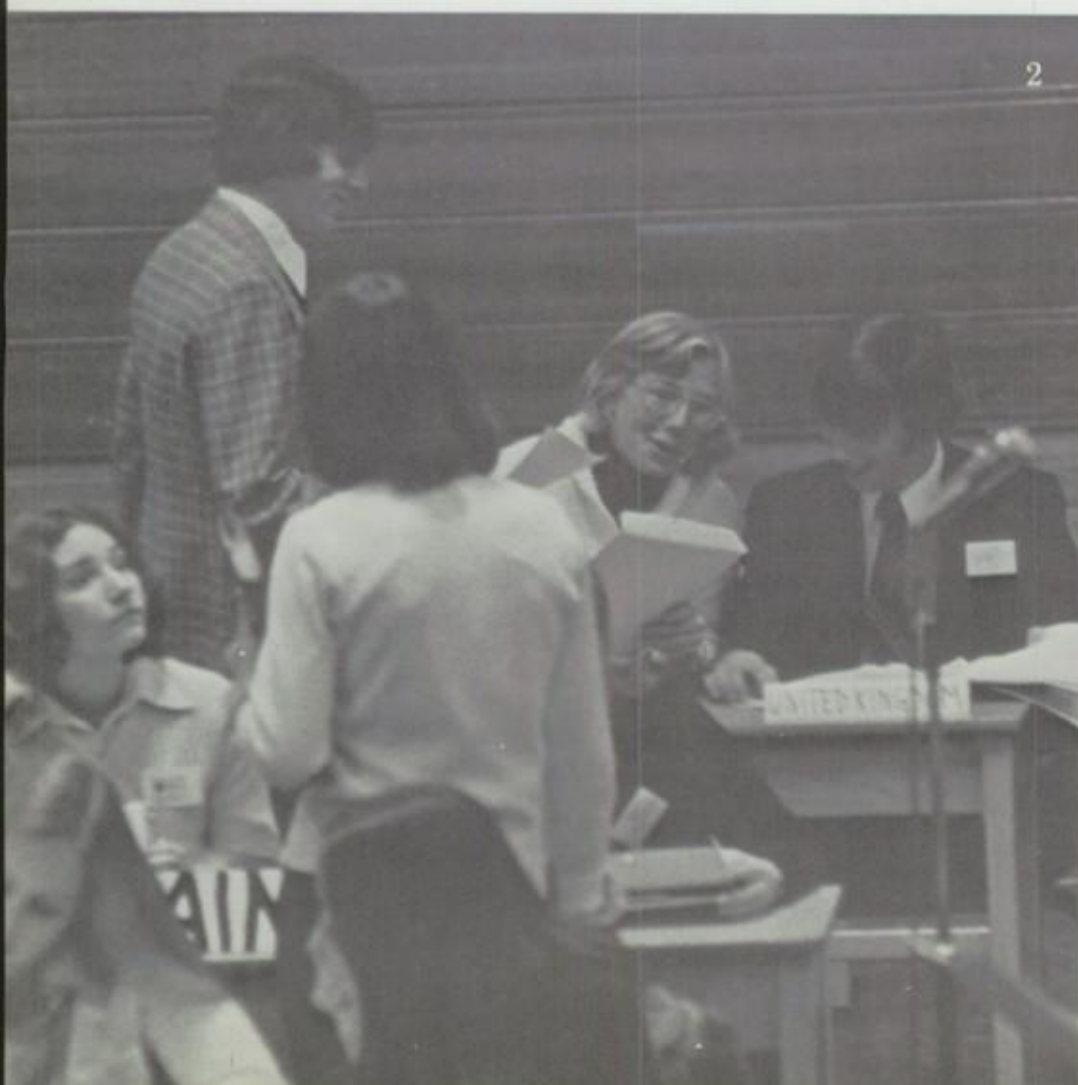

In Washington, D.C., at the North American Invitational M.U.N., delegates Mike Williams, Mike Anderson, Steve Miranda, Conrad Dende, Mike Montgomery, Tony Vizzini, Mark Dreyer, and myself showed our supremacy by winning a letter of commendation while representing Belgium. These are just the facts.

More important were the experiences. Time and again suave, sophisticated U of D delegates fell over the deep end for female delegates from Upper Volta. In Washington, Dreyer proved that he not only represented the Kingdom of Belgium, but that he was the King. William's dramatic swat at a fly with his shoe must have turned Nikita Krus-chev in his grave. Matt Wilbert's portable Chatham's saved us from starvation more than once. Through all of this, we surprisingly never lost our composure. As president (which actually means I get to empty the waste baskets) looking back on the year, I am proud of our success. I am proud to have been a part.

Michael Synk

1. Crazy Pete and John Fortier kibitzing. 2. Indian Chief Paul Gingell. 3. The delegation from the United Kingdom.

C.A.M.

C.A.M. is the Community Action Movement, a service organization.

It takes a great deal of strength, many times, to work with people who are in need of friendship and assistance. The students of U of D High who gave their time working at Focus Hope and St. Francis Boys' Home deserve the thanks and praise not only of all the other students at U of D but of the city of Detroit as well.

CUB ANNUAL

"36 PAGES DUE
APRIL 28 . . ."

The yearbook is an unusual extra-curricular. Some people, myself included, joined the staff at first for the ego trip of seeing their names appear as editors in a thousand copies of a published book. It all seemed easy at first.

As it turned out, the Cub Annual involved more than that. It absorbed time. It demanded cooperation. There was the responsibility of producing a book that would represent U of D High and every individual connected with the 1974-75 school year. There were long hours of work. There was confusion and frustration. There was the pressure of deadlines. And there was a growing sense of achievement as we began doing the book for the people who would read it.

I can say with some assurance that the yearbook staff encountered something which some of us didn't expect: friendship. For more than just workers, we became comrades with a common goal, and the unity — the brotherhood — inevitably achieved in working toward this goal became payment enough for our endeavors.

Joe Mioduszewski

1. Jim Mocerri shows Joe Mioduszewski a perfect page: unbelievable! 2. John Kane and Scott Lucas exhibit true assiduousness in their yearbook work. 3. Although Jim is stunned by the complexity of the yearbook, he keeps his sights on being a future Editor-In-Chief. 4. "It's actually much easier than you think," advises Joe.

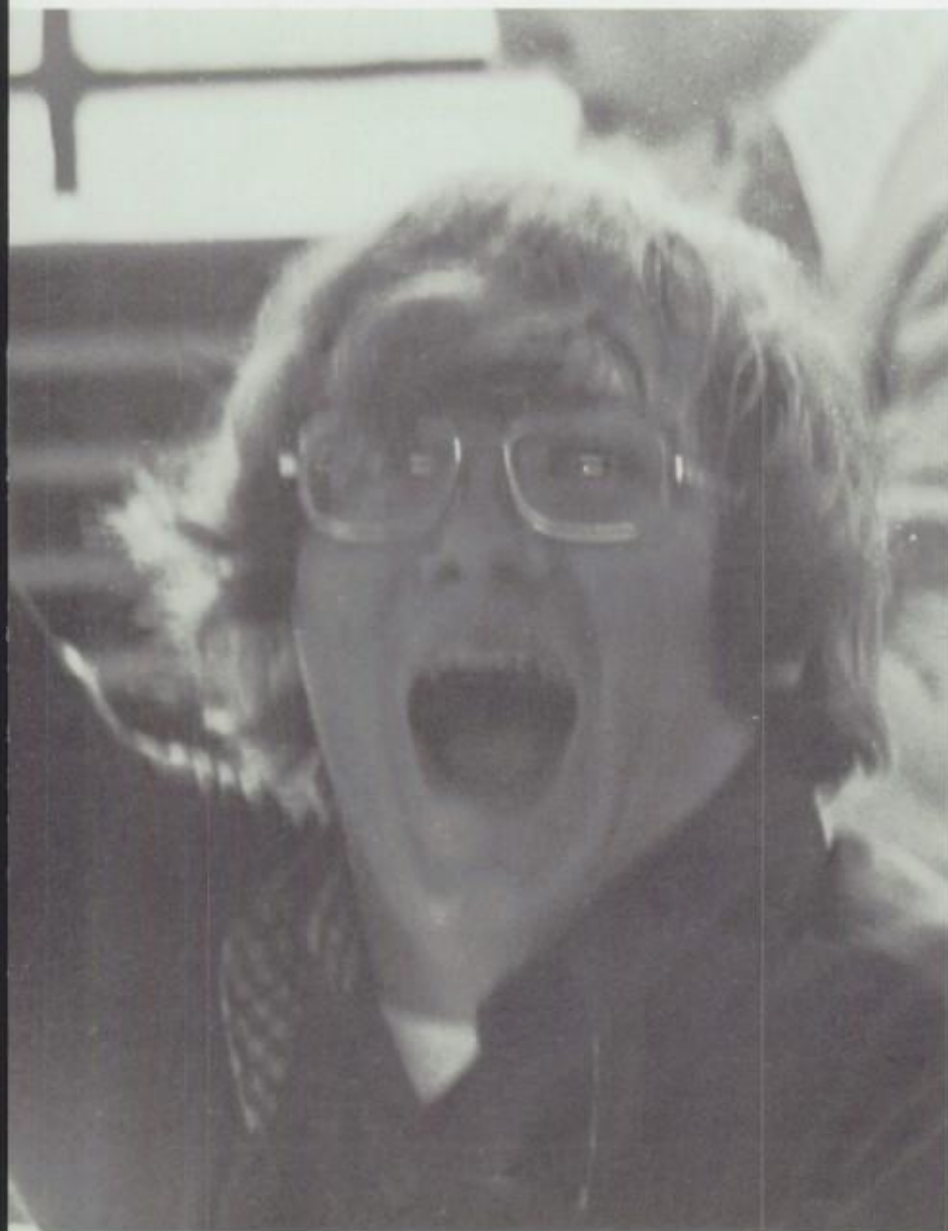

CUB NEWS

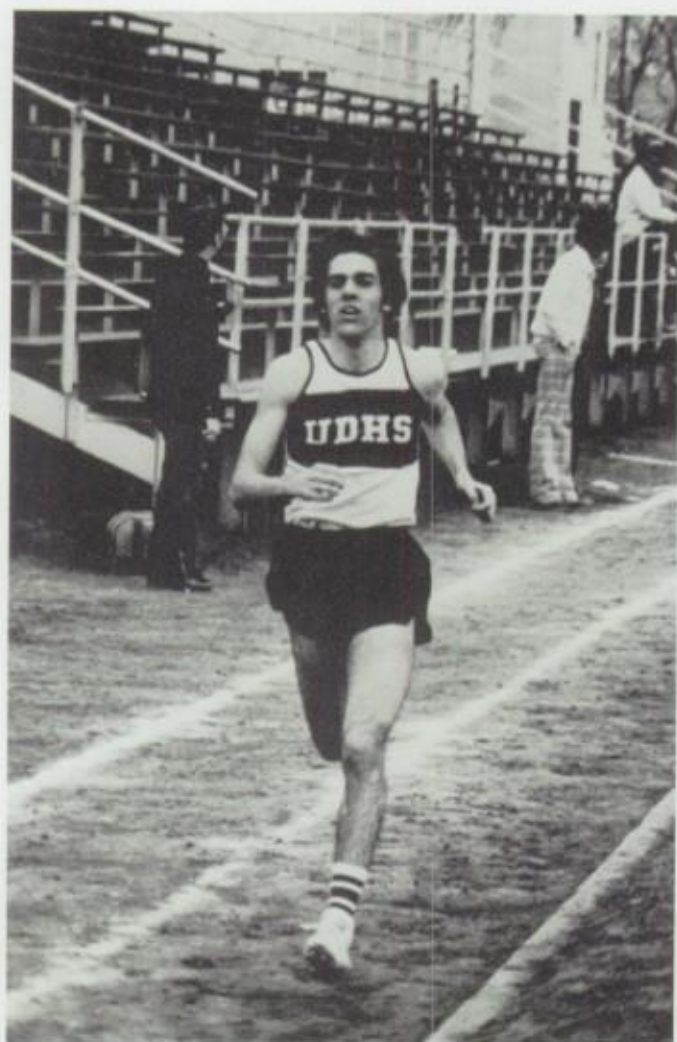

It is difficult to work together. Nevertheless, when many people share a common goal, most barriers hindering unification are usually dropped.

This past year, despite many opposing opinions and attitudes, the Cub News united to print a quality newspaper. Much dedication was demanded from those who worked to the sound of water pipes overhead after school, on weekends and even during vacations.

The bond between workers resulted in a glow which brought life to the dark, dingy, dirty room hidden near the Biology Lab. We labored together, we laughed together, and we prided ourselves on our accomplishments. For some people, that ugly converted shower-room will always seem beautiful.

May 25, 1975. The culmination of the efforts of our track team. The Catholic League Finals. 880 yard relay (Tony Everson, Shawn Curley, Jim Stapleton, Ron Robinson) — first place, meet record. 880 yard run, Jim Baumgartner — first place, meet record. One mile run, Kevin Halloran — first place. 440 yard dash, Tony Everson — first place. 220 yard dash, Jim Stapleton — second place. High Jump, Ken Darnell — third place. One mile relay (Everson, Joe Fattore, Halloran, Baumgartner), one of the best in the state and one of the highest points of the season — first place, tied meet record. Long Jump and 100 yard dash, Ron Robinson — second places.

These are the statistics of the meet which ended unluckily, four points short of the goal for which we strived. A failure? — perhaps, but I do not believe so. It all meant too much to me to be called a failure.

It was a team of great people. It was a team of a Robinson who joined to run with the team at the team's request for our benefit, and who ran despite injuries. It was a team of my fellow tri-captains, Jim Baumgartner and Kevin Halloran, and of next year's captain, Tony Everson, and their tremendous desire, ability, and friendship. It was a team of many individuals joining to win, to lose, to laugh, to cry, to help, to hurt — together. It was a team of loyal fans sharing all of this with us under all conditions, helping us. It was a team of a group of coaches giving us freely of their time and their lives.

And it was Mr. John Tenbusch, the coach who loved us from athletics to athletic men, who gave all he could give and thanked us for it, who showed us Christ.

Shawn Curley

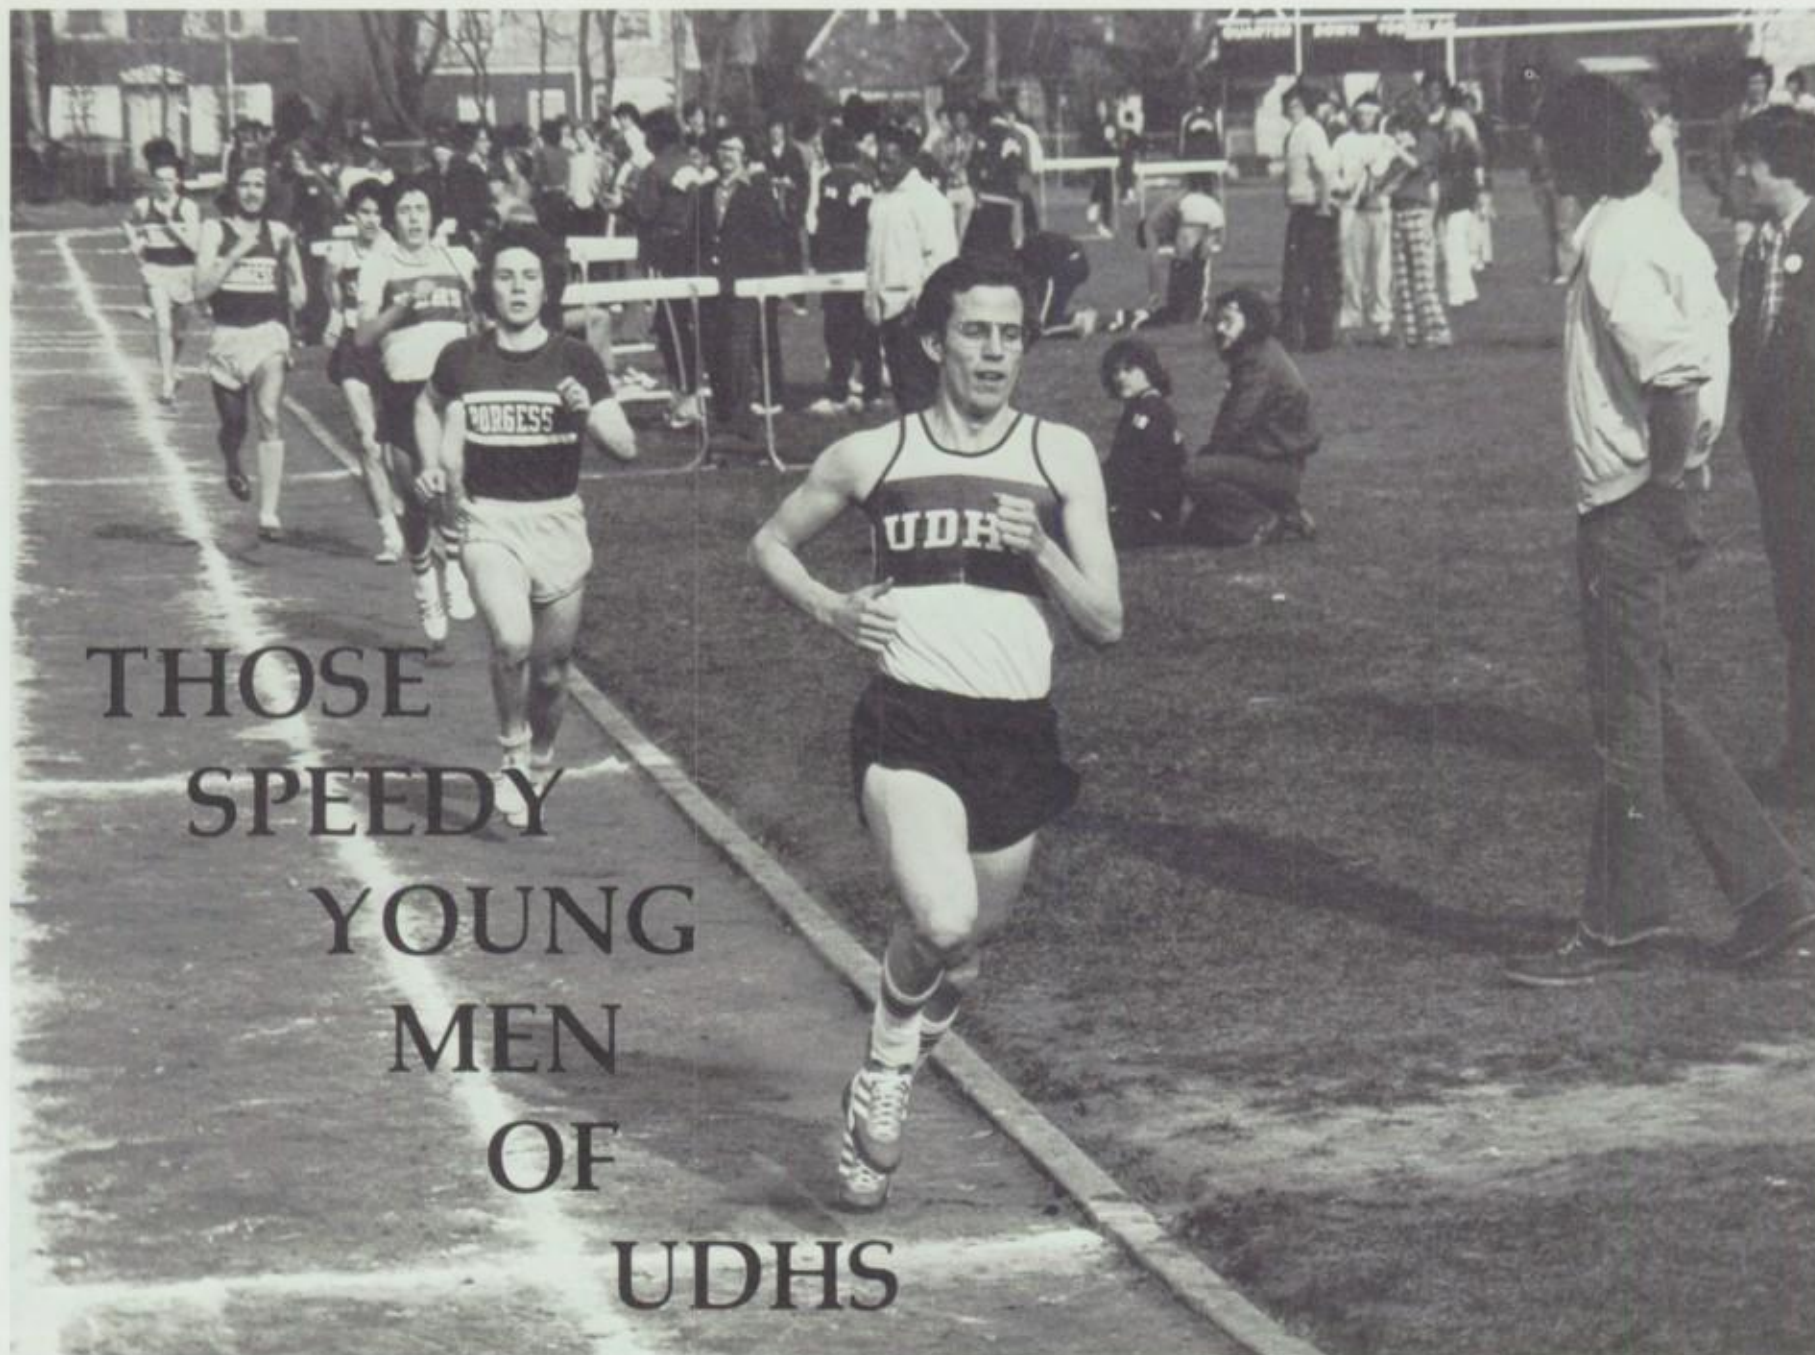

The 1975 Cub Track Team finished 4-1 in the division and third in the League. We ran with pride; we ran with our hearts. Injuries, hurts and mistakes cost us the title. We treated our competition as we would have liked to be treated. We set three meet records: the 880 relay (Tony Everson, Shawn Curley, Jim Stapleton and Robinson) 1:30.9; the mile relay (Tony Everson, Joe Fattore, Kevin Halloran, Jim Baumgartner) 3:25.5 ties meet record and Jim Baumgartner broke his own meet record in the 880 yard run with 1:54.5. Tony Everson won the 440 in 49.9 setting a new school record of 4:2

The freshman team took third in their finals. We were close as a team. Freshmen supported varsity and varsity supported the frosh. Coaches Dean Ludwig, Tom Gorman, Larry Liebowitz, Roger Howard, ry Myzkowski, and John Tenbusch pushed us while Mr. Thomas Coyne healed und Free licked our wounds.

The season was good but it hurt. Ron Robinson ran through bruised heels for two seconds in the 100 and Long Jump while Jim Stapleton took seconfithe 220 nursing a tender knee. Shawn Curley gave his all but a strained leg muscle robbed him of a place in the low hurdles. Pain was part of the season but the end result was a strong unified team who worked withfkloved each other.

TENNIS

The participants of this year's tennis team experienced the joy of victory as well as the agonies of defeat. Moreover, since tennis is not a major spectator sport, these emotions were felt more deeply by the players. The team played a tough schedule which included Class A champs Austin and highly regarded Brother Rice. The practice dedication of the players, coupled with the inspiration of Coach Rodriguez, carried U of D High across the dismal threshold of the season. Throughout the season the team remained a strong competitor, as was evident in its overwhelming victories as well as in its narrow defeats. Tennis is growing rapidly as a participant sport, and this year marked the beginning of a J.V. tennis squad at U of D High. This team gained valuable experience in winning the majority of its matches on route to a prosperous year in 1976.

EXPERIENCED

Despite having an experienced squad which featured ten seniors, the Cubs finished with a league record of two wins and eight losses. Many thought the team would be headed to Tiger Stadium for the C.H.S.L. championship, but they could not combine consistent hitting, pitching, and fielding — essential ingredients needed to produce a winning team.

The Cubs faced tough competition as two teams in their league, Notre Dame and Brother Rice, were ranked in the Class A top ten. Rice went on to capture the Catholic League Championship, proving that the Central Division was the toughest.

There were some highlights contained in the two league triumphs as senior Mike Rucinski hurled a 5-0 shutout against De La Salle, and at Catholic Central, two All-Leaguers teamed up to help defeat the Shamrocks 3-1. Winning pitcher Don Fucinari struck out fifteen batters and Tom Buczak supported his excellent pitching with a two-run homer.

In state tournament action U. of D. downed Redford 9-2, but then bowed out to C.C. 3-0. This final contest was somewhat typical of many games during the season as C.C. managed only two hits, but errors and the lack of hitting proved fatal to U. of D. There were many well-pitched games which would have been won if the Cubs had more offensive punch.

Looking back on the past seasons, I would like to express my gratitude to our coach, Bill Isham, and my teammates for their ever-present companionship and influence. After being associated with this group of individuals, I know my years on varsity were highly profitable, first place finish or not.

PROJECT DETROIT

In April, U of D High students moved beyond the Seven Mile campus to serve the city in the form of Project Detroit. The Belle Isle clean-up project was sponsored by the Student Senate and endorsed by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. It raised almost $12,000 for the school Grant-in-Aid Fund. More importantly though, it attained its goal of unifying the student body in service of Detroit.

STUDENT SENATE

Although the UDHS Student Senate began the school year as sadly as seems possible with the tragic crippling of Senate President Paul Mueller, it staged a tremendous recovery under the leadership of John Nixon, Bob Neaton, Mike Toth, and Tom Giancarlo, to become one of the most efficient in recent memory.

These officers made 1974-75 a year to remember.

The atmosphere of the Senate was one of striving to achieve something of lasting importance which led ultimately to Project Detroit.

Among the events sponsored by the Senate were the controversial movie Slaughterhouse-Five, the novel Barn Dance, and the Masquerade Party.

These and other innovations made this Senate one to remember.

But the Senate was not just good times and dances. It played a significant role in planning the 1975 curriculum, in helping students get the tutoring aid they might need, and in getting several rule changes which will undoubtedly be of lasting significance at the High.

All in all, a memorable year.

Matthew Wilbert

1. Senate moderator Mr. Robert LaFleur, who will resign from that post at the end of this year. 2. Treasurer Bob Neaton and Sergeant-at-Arms Tom Giancarlo sitting in on a Senate meeting.

1. Mike Toth holding things up as usual. 2. The authoritative John Nixon. 3. Senate moderator Miss Nancy Parker.

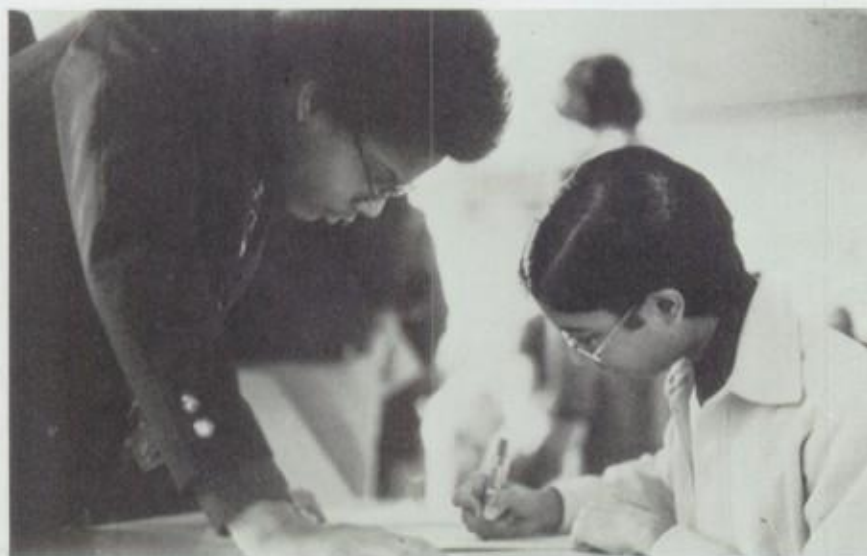

ACADEMY SENATE

Accompanying the introduction of the Jesuit Academy to the "High" community was the Academy Senate. This organization serves as a proving ground for aspiring young Machiavellis. It is an extracurricular through which pre-high school students can learn the workings of the political machine of the senate. By participating in the Academy Senate, students will better learn how to operate and improve the Student Senate when they get to the real thing.

MOTHERS' AND FATHERS' CLUBS

The Mothers' and Dads' Clubs provide vital services for U of D High. The Annual Fund and the Auction rely heavily upon the services and contributions of U of D High parents. But that's not the limit of their energies. The Mothers' Club held another successful Gale Night and hosted innumerable pre-auction and recruitment teas. They also provided hearty lunches for hungry Project Detroit workers on Belle Isle. The Dads ushered at athletic events, supported the Family Mass program, and inaugurated Bingo in the U of D High gym on June 1.

AUCTION '75

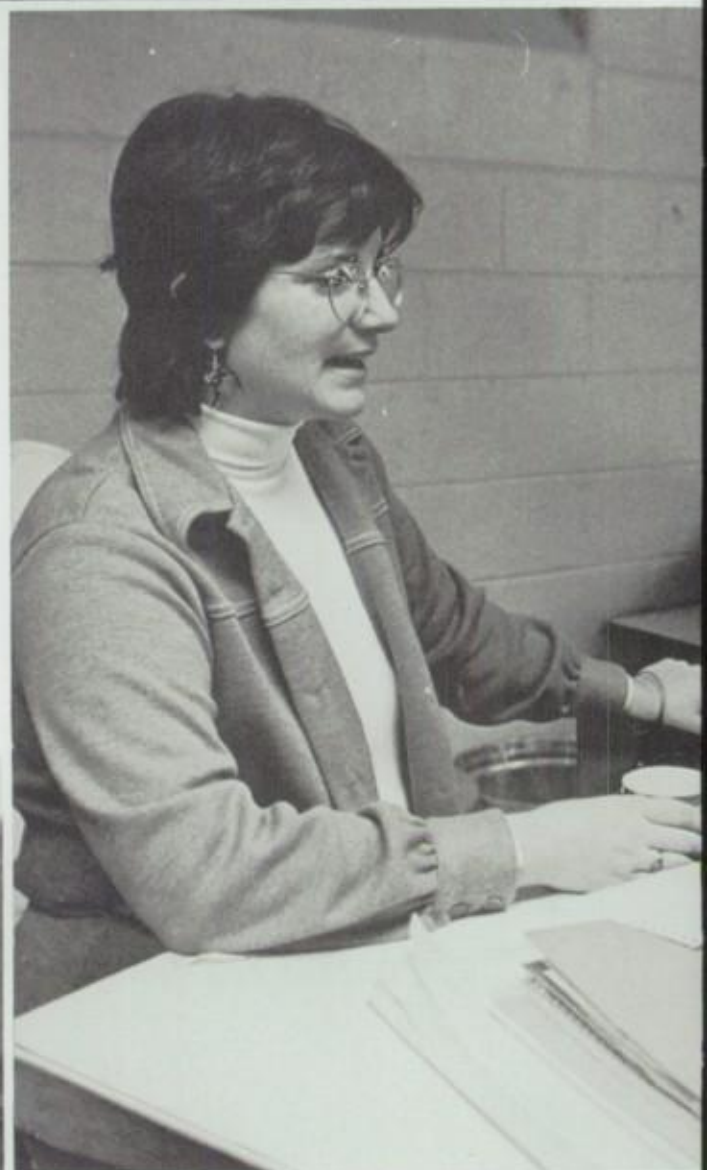

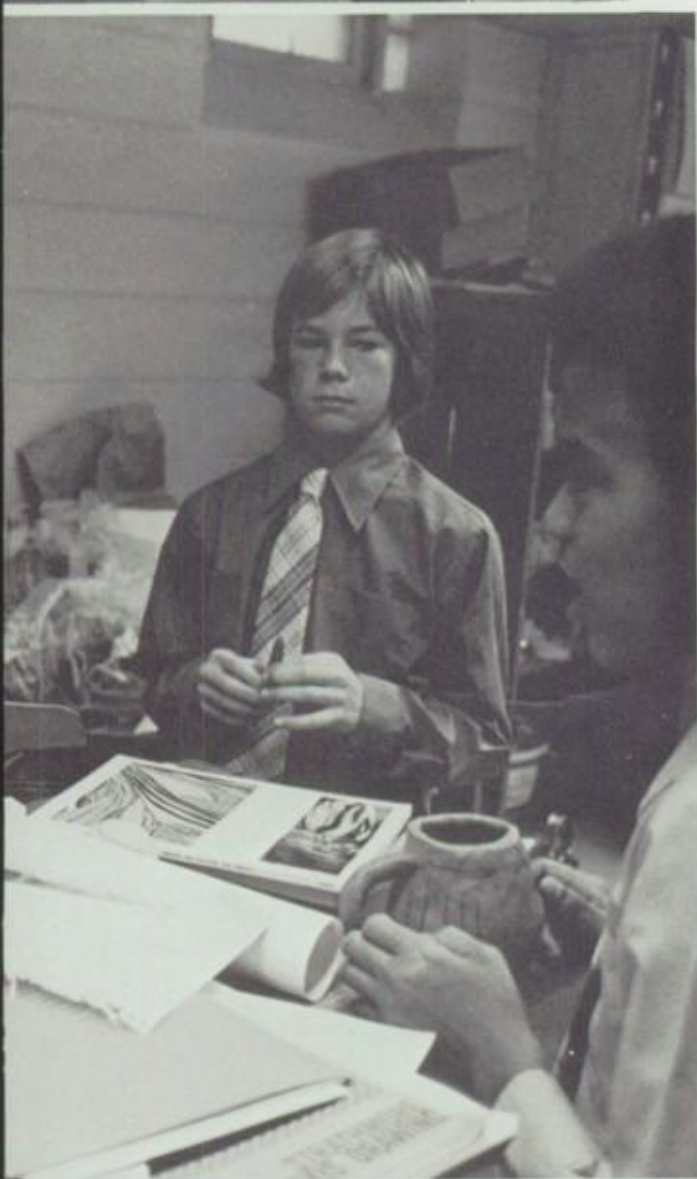

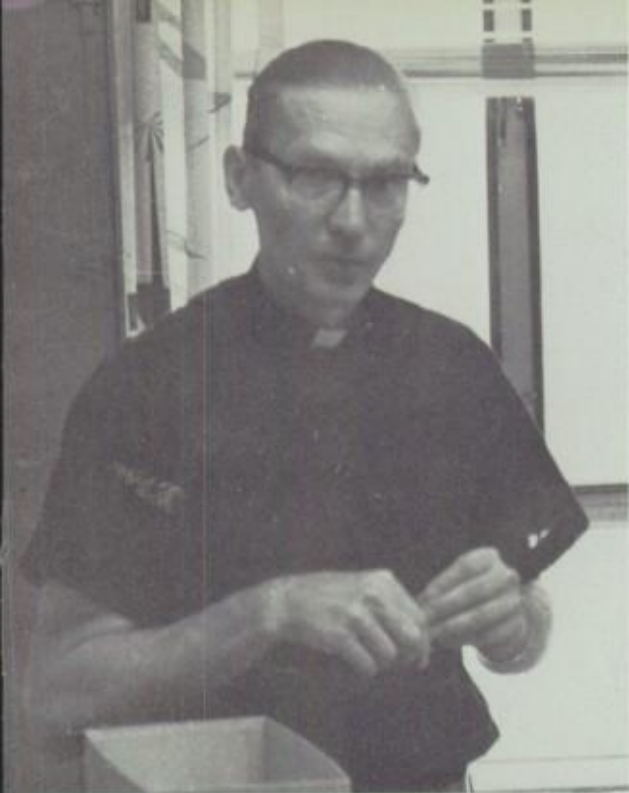

The year 1975 saw yet one more U. of D. High High Time Auction take place with some 1000 people attending and enjoying themselves by bidding on donated items given to the auction by members of the U.D.H.S. family. Items auctioned off ranged from art objects and sports equipment to a 1975 Ford Thunderbird which even came with a red and white color scheme in a true U. of D. High tradition. All in all then, the auction provided a congenial atmosphere where parents and friends could get together and help the school by providing the funds which are needed to run our school.

If there's one good thing I can do,
One heart that I can mend,
One teardrop I can help replace with laughter for a friend,
One unsaid word that I can say
to take away a wrong,
One little thing I can do to make a weak faith strong,
If there's a kindness I can show
however great or small,
Then my life will have some meaning:
That's what matters most of all.

To U of D High School:

Although I have been advised against writing a letter to the student body for my conclusion to this yearbook, I can think of no better way to express my feelings at this time. First of all, I would like to express my thanks to the staff for their help in doing this book. Being the editor isn't an easy job, but with your help this has been a learning experience I won't soon forget. To everyone else, I hope you enjoy this book. In my opinion it lacks some creativity, but overall it is a decent book as far as I'm concerned.

I would like to thank all the people with whom I've come in contact during my four years at U of D High. Each has helped me grow in one degree or another. To those people with whom I've had deeper relationships (you know who you are) many sincere thanks are due.

Believe it or not, I'd really like to thank the 1974 track team. Being a member was a truly unique experience for me.

As a word of advice to all who come after the class of 1975: U of D High is people. The extracurriculars provide what is probably the best way of interacting with these people. If you want to get more out of this school, if you want to get to know others better, join the extracurriculars.

Lastly, people around me know that I loved U of D High and the people connected with it. If you are still a part of it, stick with it. It's worth all the hassles and pains to get the experiences which I believe only this school can offer.

To the class of '75, I hope to see you at our reunion. Good luck to one and all.

Joe Mioduszewski
